TCA § 49-6-3050 states: (e)(1) If any of the public schools established under the jurisdiction of an LEA (Local Education Agency) are members of an organization or an association that regulates interscholastic athletic competition, and if such organization or association establishes or maintains eligibility requirements for home school students desiring to participate in interscholastic athletics at a member school, then the LEA shall permit participation in interscholastic athletics at those schools by home school students who satisfy the eligibility requirements established by the organization or association. Humans have long used philosophy, literature... Los Rios Community College District It's easier than ever to apply to any of our four student-centered colleges. An Intent to Home School form is not required for students who enrolled in a church-related school. (2) This subsection (e) does not guarantee that a home school student trying out for an interscholastic athletics team will make the team or supplant the authority of coaches or other school officials in deciding who makes the team. It's as simple as that. To be an acceptable online school for students who reside in Tennessee, the school must be accredited by one of regional accrediting agencies listed below: Cognia (formerly AdvanceED) NWAC - Northwest Accreditation Commission Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools (MSA) MSCES - Middle States Commission on Elementary Schools MSCSS - Middle States Commission on Secondary Schools NCA CASI - North Central Association Commission on Accreditation and School Improvement National Association of Independent Schools (NAIS) and affiliates (e.g., SAIS) National Council of Private School Accreditation (NCPSA) New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC) Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC) Independently registered home school students have the right to try out for sports/athletic teams at their local school district. For a list of home school contacts in each school district, click on "Home School Coordinators" (gray box on right side of this page). Accept and Close Cookies Disclaimer The requested page is not available.ID 6807818061335816912 In Tennessee, parents have the option to educate their children at home, an option known as homeschooling or home education. Parents choosing this educational option must be sure to determine that the school has legitimate accreditation status and will be required to provide evidence to the local school district that their child is enrolled in an accredited online school. The law states that independent home school students must: "Provide annual notice to the local director of schools prior to each school year of the parent-teacher's intent to conduct a home school and, for the purpose of reporting only, submission to the director of schools of the names, number, ages and grade levels of the children to be home schooled, the location of the school, the proposed curriculum to be offered, the proposed hours of instruction and the qualifications of the parent-teacher"; Maintain attendance records and submit these records to the Director of Schools at the end of each school year; and Submit proof of vaccination and receipt of any health services or examinations as required by law. This subsection (e) is intended to guarantee only that the home school student shall not be prohibited from trying out for an interscholastic athletics team, if the student is eligible under the rules of the organization or association, solely by reason of the student's status as a home school student. Parents may home school their own children pursuant to Tennessee Code Annotated § 49-6-3050 by registering with their local school district. After that, fill out the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) or California Dream Act Application (CADAA) to save money on tuition and other fees. Parents who choose this option will be required to provide evidence to the local school district that their child is enrolled in a church-related school. Student attendance (at least 4 hours per day, 180 days per year) must be reported to the local school district at the end of the school year. The Tennessee Home School law (Tennessee Code Annotated § 49-6-3050) states: "A home school is a school conducted or directed by a parent or parents or a legal guardian or guardians for their own children." Parents desiring to home school their own children may do so by choosing one of the following three options. No. The Home School Law (TCA 49-6-3050) provides very little guidance specific to the curriculum a parent must provide. The only mention of curriculum is in section (b) (1): "...submission to the director of schools... the proposed curriculum to be offered..." But there is no mention of what the curriculum must be. However, parents should keep in mind the testing requirement in grades 5, 7, and 9 in which their child will be tested on the grade level state curriculum in Reading/Language Arts, Math, Science, and Social Studies. Parents in Tennessee may choose to home school their own children in grades K - 12. Frequently Asked Questions about applying to college Broadcast Journalism The Broadcast Journalism program introduces students to news reporting that is delivered electronically instead of being published in... A parent should include those subjects in with their proposed curriculum to ensure that their child will be prepared for testing in those areas. Parents choosing this educational option should begin by contacting the local school district. When you apply now, you guarantee your admission to Los Rios. Yes, there is an option outlined below in TCA § 49-6-3050 which would allow for a home school student to take a test other than the TCAP or End of Course Assessments. The law states: (5) (A) Administration by the commissioner of education, or the commissioner's designee, or by a professional testing service that is approved by the LEA, to home school students of the same state board approved secure standardized tests required of public school students in grades five (5), seven (7) and nine (9); (ii) Tests administered by a professional testing service shall be administered within thirty (30) days of the date of the statewide test. Testing of independent home school students is required in grades 5, 7, and 9 and coordinated through the local school district. The church-related school will determine record keeping and test requirements for students enrolled in an umbrella program. For additional questions email Home.School@tn.gov. Parents may also enroll their child in an accredited online school. The parent will be required to complete an Intent to Home School form and provide evidence of a high school diploma or GED.
